THE RAINBOW FISH

The Rainbow Fish by Marcus Pfister is a book about a unique fish with shimmering scales. Other fish admire him and request some of his scales because they want to share in his beauty. At first reluctant, Rainbow Fish eventually relents and finds he enjoys sharing his scales.

After reading the story, what makes the rainbow fish beautiful?

If you had scale like the rainbow fish, would you be beautiful?

Beauty

The rainbow fish is exceptional for its beauty and it's called the most beautiful fish in the entire ocean.

- What makes someone or something beautiful?
 - What is more beautiful exterior beauty or character beauty?
 - is being unique what makes something or someone beautiful?

SHARE

- Have you ever owned an item that you didn't want to share? What was it?
- Did it make you happier or sadder to share an item that you love?
- Imagine the rainbow fish gave away all of his scale, would you be happy for him because he was sharing his scale?

What happens to the rainbow fish at the end...

At the end of the story, the rainbow fish decides to share his beautiful scale with other fish. Is the rainbow fish happy eventually? ,

HAPPINESS

- Does sharing at least make a person happy?
- The book says that Rainbow Fish grew more and more delighted as he gave away his scales. Is this true? What do you think of this?
- Rainbow Fish was happy with his scales, and he was happy with his new friends. Are there different kinds of happiness?
